Theme: Youth vs Age (and the youths seem like they are winning)

Star Trek TOS Charlie X

Lucas Grabeel (??)

The teenager (Jason Matheny played by Lucas Grabeel) accused of hit and run is a dead ringer for Charlie X (TOS Season 1, Ep. 2 – 17 yr old Charlie X/Chalie Evans, played by Robert Walker, Jr.) sidenote: Charlie is the sole survivor of a transport crash 14 years ago.

It's that petulant, gaze from beneath the brows look.

Just because you can never have enough pics of Kirk with his shirt off.

2. Star Trek TOS Episode: Miri

The second episode that pits youth against age is Miri. A planet whereby all the people contract a deadly virus at puberty that quickly drives them insane as well as speeds up aging and they eventually die (sounds a lot like Alzheimer's to me). The planet is ruled by the remaining children. The children have banded together to kill the "Grups" (grownups). Miri is played by Kim Darby.

3. Star Trek VII Insurrection: Picard and the Crew of the Enterprise discover a planet with a special feature. It has a ring that drastically slows aging. The peaceful inhabitants of the planet Baku are threatened by a sinister plot to relocate them in order to vacate the planet and harvest the material found in the ring which needs to be destroyed in order to do so. It is the proverbial fountain of youth. Quote: "Have you noticed how your boobs have started to firm up?" (Counselor Troi to Dr. Beverley Crusher) – Must .... Find.... Wav....

Workplace Romance? The effects of the planet help rekindle the romance between Commander Riker and Counselor Troi.

Insurrection also gives us a depiction of cosmetic surgery going horribly wrong. Similar to Ass Fat's the "ugly" risks in the pursuit of youth.

Of course, cosmetically enhanced women appear all throughout the various Star Trek series. Mudd's Women and doesn't Mudd resemble Dr. Barry Glouberman (Richard Riehle)

Mudd's Women take a drug that enhances their beauty and makes them irresistible to men. The effect is temporary.

The pilot episodes "The Cage". Below, Vina's image is altered through telepathic means to appear to desirable in many different manifestations.

Appearances are deceiving. Here Vina is shown as her former self, as a damsel in distress, as a green Orion slave girl and as her true self.

AGING AND ALZHEIMER'S in STAR TREK

David McCoy was the father of Doctor Leonard McCoy, chief medical officer of the USS Enterprise, and grandfather of Joanna McCoy. (Star Trek III: The Search for Spock) David, like previous generations of McCoy's, passed down the family recipe for Southern baked beans to his son, Leonard. Years later, Leonard would reveal that the "secret ingredient" was Tennessee whiskey. Late in his life, David was stricken with an incurable painful disease in which he pleaded with his son to release him from. A cure was discovered soon after, subsequently causing Leonard many years of regret from causing his fathers apparently needless death. Leonard was forced to relive the event as a means to relieve his "pain", in 2287, following an encounter with Vulcan-outcast, Sybok. (Star Trek V: The Final Frontier)

The scene where Shirley Schmidt goes to visit her father ....
